Real, concrete investment firm IPIF changes its name to Invest Unlisted

New name reflects broader focus on a wider range of unlisted investments

MELBOURNE, Victoria, 2 October, 2020 – Infrastructure Partners Investment Fund (“IPIF”) announced plans to change its corporate name to “Invest Unlisted,” effective today, in order to reflect a broadening of the company’s investment objectives.

The name change follows the success of the firm’s IPIF Core Fund, which provides smaller institutional investors, self-managed superannuation funds, and sophisticated individual investors with unprecedented access to unlisted essential infrastructure investments. With the new name, the firm plans to introduce additional unlisted investment opportunities.

“We are excited about our shift to Invest Unlisted and the new chapter it signals,” said Founder and Chief Executive Officer, Nicole Connolly. “Since we began, we’ve focused on opening up remarkable opportunities to smaller investors so they can also benefit from investing in the infrastructure we all use every day. We’re expanding our ability to bring unprecedented access and concrete investments to those previously left out of these asset classes.”

Events in the world today are driving demand for new unlisted investments,” added Chief Investment Officer Jonathan van Rooyen. “We’re committed to pioneering access to these innovative investments, and diversifying both our portfolio and those of investors, with assets that provide essential services for functioning economies.”

The company made headlines in 2015 when it launched its flagship unlisted infrastructure fund, IPIF Core Fund (now known as Core Infrastructure Fund). Today, Invest Unlisted boasts almost $200 million in funds under management and a reputation for steady returns despite the volatility seen in other areas of the market.

While the company’s investment frontier is widening, ownership and management of the firm will remain unchanged. Invest Unlisted remains committed to providing investors real, concrete, investments.

In connection with the name change, Invest Unlisted has also unveiled a new logo and updated the company website at www.investunlisted.com.
